All in Good Time

My brother, Jimmy, is three years older than I am. I don't think that's a good enough reason for him to be the king of this house! Why does he get to do so much more than I do? He can stay out later, have sleepover parties, and he has the neatest games and CDs.

"When can I do the things Jimmy can?" I ask my mom. "All in good time," my mom always answers. Jimmy is going to a concert tomorrow night. It sounds so cool! I want to go, too. But my parents say no, because I am too young. Too young! I am almost 10 years old! Can't they see I am not a baby anymore? Jimmy is going with some friends and one parent. I asked him if I could go with him, and he just laughed as he patted me on the head. I hate it when he does that. Tonight we are going to have tacos for dinner. Jimmy loves tacos. I hate them. But of course we are having what King Jimmy wants. He is Mom's favorite. I just know it. Jimmy gets home from school earlier than I do, because he is in middle school. If our mom is deciding what to cook for dinner, he is there to tell her. I can't help it if I get home a whole hour later. It isn't fair!

Someday I am going to be just like Jimmy. I am going to go to concerts, and have my friends sleep over. I am going to have better CDs to listen to, and more fun games to play. Someday I will be able to do all the things Jimmy can do. I just want that someday to be today!

Reading Comprehension

Charli does not get scared when he sees spiders. He gets excited when he finds new kind of spiders. He likes to learn about them. He knows that spiders have eight legs and come in different sizes and colors. Many spiders make webs to catch bugs for food. The tarantula does not make a web. It is faster than all other spiders. It can catch its food because it can run fast. It is bigger than the bugs it eats.

Charli's friend Tomas asks him, "Do spiders get angry when people break their webs?" Charlie doesn't know how spiders feel, but he feels sad for the spiders. Making a web is a lot of work.
